1. Who is the target audience for this course?

   The target audience for this course is health professionals in multiple disciplines who have some formal responsibility for teaching others (either in a classroom or clinical setting). Disciplines include medicine, nursing, pharmacy, dentistry, clinical psychology, social work, optometry, podiatry, physical therapy, occupational therapy, speech therapy and public health.

2. What do you mean by “health professional”?

   “Health professional” is defined as an individual who has received an associate degree, a bachelor’s degree, a master’s degree, a doctoral degree, or post-baccalaureate training in a field relating to health care, and who shares in the responsibility for the delivery of health care services or related services.

3. What do you mean by faculty?

   “Faculty” is defined as health professionals with a structured teaching role, either full-time or part-time and who teach curriculum (knowledge, skills and attitudes needed for practice) to health professional learners at any level, including continuing education. Teaching can be done in a traditional classroom environment or in a clinical setting.

4. Do you have to work at UCSF to participate in this course?

   No, all faculty or health professionals with a teaching role can participate.

5. I do not have a teaching role, can I still apply?

   Due to the teaching focus of this course, applicants should have a teaching role either in the classroom or in a clinical setting.

6. It may be difficult for me to attend all of the sessions. Is this OK?

   Participants are expected to plan on attending all of the in-person sessions. The curriculum is designed as a whole and each session builds on previous knowledge and skills in geriatrics, teaching and leadership. We understand for solo practitioners or others with similar responsibilities this may be difficult but it is essential for development of group relationships and for achievement of the course’s learning objectives. All participants will be asked to request support from their supervisor to attend the 8 Friday sessions (if applicable).

7. I would like to sit in on one or two sessions. Is this OK?

   Because space is limited and we will be working with the group of faculty over the course of a year, it will not work to have individuals sit in since this may disrupt the cohesion of the group.
